The principle of complementarity of quantum mechanics declares that the world is composed of two contradictory forces pulling each other to change the world.

The universe is driven by two forces: forward and backward. The force that moves forward brings progress and light to the universe. The power of stagnation will exhaust the universe until it becomes a black hole.

Quantum mechanics proves that the world is in a state of uncertainty, and that each person, as an observer and actor, will acquire a set of equations of his or her own, an equation that speaks to his or her unique relationship with the world.

For the world is full of uncertainty and probability, one must take positive action to change the world.

Art is a system of action, intended to change the world.

The 10 most energetic periods in the history of human development have become planets through their powerful self-energy and the bending of space-time caused by the gravitational field equation, and are connected to each other in the universe to form a star group.

This emerging cluster, generated from the crystallization of human intelligence, shines so brightly in space that Earth astronomers name it Flash Track.

Each planet in Flash Track has a stellar-like self-generated energy that comes from its own incessant innovation. The abundance of pure energy in the Flash Track not only sustains its own planets, but also provides energy to other galaxies in the form of intense light energy.

Human thus discover the most precious energy source in the universe is pure power, and the Flash Track, with its abundance of pure power, has become a space frontier that human aspire to explore most.

In order to promote the positive kinetic of the overall cosmos, Apollo, the Sun God sent 10 future spacecrafts from the 11th dimension to allow humans to travel to the 10 planets in the Flash Track to search for 10 pure power treasures and lead them back to Earth to strengthen its pure power.

In addition to bringing pure energy treasures back to Earth, the rich pure energy of the planet itself will be implanted into the core consciousness of the treasure hunter like a chip in the brain during the treasure hunting process of exploring Flash Track planets, inspiring creative thinking.

Human will realize that the universe exists to create, evolve, and innovate.

History has its self conscious that old times will continue to call forth and give birth to new times.

The task of human is to act actively in a world of uncertainty and possibilities that to accelerate the process of innovative change.

As in Einstein's Theory of Everything and Superstring Theory, all matter is created from a fluctuation. Your actions will activate the first strings of the pure power of human creation.

With the sale of 19,800 Flash Track NFT commemorative medals, we will create 10 Flash Track planets of human cultural time-space in the metaverse, contributing to a continuous, uncompensated exploration and learning for all ages of human being through VR headsets as the endless stream of pure power.
